Foliar by Adam Cornish

Foliar is a unique and beautiful interactive wall feature inspired by foliage and organic shapes found in nature.

Designed by Australian industrial designer Adam Cornish, the dynamic system features a base tile and flexible leaf, which encourages engagement and activity within the interior space through the ability to play with texture and colour by folding individual leaves up or lay flat as desired.

Foliar can be installed in endless organic formations, arranged in clusters or scattered, that grow and multiply similar to the cellular structures it was inspired by.

Foliar is easy to install and available in seven leaf and five base colours, allowing for extensive colour combinations.
